

Vincent at the Threshold

by Anonymous

Any moment now.

Catherine will appear.

She'll emerge from a shaft of blue light,

Into Vincent's arms.

Tonight, he has a surprise for Catherine.

In a hidden place, a secluded niche beneath the Bandshell in Central Park.

Since childhood, he's secretly heard all the great music. Tonight, the New York Philharmonic performs a majestic and sublime work - one of his supreme favorites - one he will share with her ...

Schubert's Unfinished Symphony.

There are many unfinished symphonies, Vincent reflects, poised at the threshold between two great and discrete worlds.... But soon, Catherine will appear to breach the gap - at least for a little while.

Any moment now, any moment!