

Family for Funeral

by Allison

Catherine looked over the small crowd gathered for her father's funeral as she prepared to read The Velveteen Rabbit passage she selected.

Marilyn, Peter, Joe, Jenny, Nancy were all in the front two rows, supporting her. As she looked over the rest of the faces, most she recognized, few she did not.

As her gaze reached the back of the church, a small gasp escaped her. Her eyes met those of Father, Mary, Devin, Pascal, William, Jamie, Mouse and many others. Her tunnel family came to support her as well.

Her eyes glistened, she smiled as she began to read,