

Sunshine

by Angie

Catherine was happy and humming to herself as she worked on the Foundation accounts in her office. Her voice wasn't great, she knew it, but at least she wasn't off-key.

Maybe it was the prospect of less work over the summer, or being able to cool off in bathing pools below, or ...

She grabbed her purse and left to visit her favourite novelty shop. This time she knew exactly what she wanted.

She presented the magnet to Vincent after lunch, while softly singing a little tune as she handed it to him.

"You are my sunshine, my only sunshine..."

