

Hole in the Ground

by Angie

Sarah had enjoyed celebrating Halloween with Devin, and since he had said he would return for Winterfest and Yuletide, she decided to make him a gift. Tunnel folk often gave private gifts although they always picked names too, so everyone got a gift.

After a little thought, Sarah remembered one of Devin's expressions and decided she could play with that. It didn't take a great deal of planning, simple being always best, and she found the yarn in the sewing room boxes.

The result got a wry laugh from Devin, and a kiss, which made it all worthwhile.

She smiled.

