

Love in a Bowl

by Angie

Catherine had decided to make their Valentine's Day meal. Et was still winter, so something hot and nourishing would be best – and special.

'Hot and Sour Soup' would be the very thing. She needed the recipe and knew where to get it. The ingredients were easily bought close by, under Lin's direction.

Catherine smiled, convinced that this would be a winner. And so it proved.

Vincent gobbled it up joyfully and voraciously. Afterwards, well, she had to believe the soup had been misnamed.

To her it would forever be, 'love in a bowl'.

