

The Question

by Judith

“Have you asked Catherine to marry you, yet? You’d better, before I get home at Christmas, and ask her. I’d bring her back to New Zealand, and teach her all sorts of new things.

“Up to you, bro. Kia kaha, man. It means, be strong, and go for it! Last warning!

“You two are made for each other. Even I saw that. Well, Charles told me, and then I got it. Beware the Kiwi! Don’t make me come up there and hurt you...”

Vincent read his brother’s letter again, before frowning at the enclosed magnet. Was it truly that simple?

