Elliot's Wish

Elliot asked for quiet before he raised his glass of William's fine brew to toast the happy couple.

"May you always know the deep love and abiding beauty you have now. May you always have friends gathered beneath your roof and around you, and may you never go to bed angry with each other. May each dawn be a new beginning, and each night the beginning of something new. And may you always have each other, and be together forever..."

He inclined his head, watching Vincent lean slowly down to kiss Catherine deeply, and Elliot smiled, silently wishing them well.
