

Roses

by Jodie Boyle

I bought a bunch of roses today...

Red for my passion, and desire.

Yellow for remembering all the precious moments we have shared, since the night we met.

White represents the purest love that I feel for you, and the porcelain rose I gave you on our first anniversary.

Purple reminds me of your courage and chivalry. My very own knight-in-shining-armor.

Pink is the flush which fills my face; the rush of my heart when I see you.

For now, they have been placed in my favorite crystal vase.

Tonight, I shall give them to you.

Come quickly, twilight...